It is a bit like Stardew Valley with bit adventure. You learn to craft your tools. You level up too.. I really loved this game and cannot wait for the next installment. The interface is easy to navigate, the voice acting is amazing, graphics are perfect for the atmosphere and the story is captivating! There is one part in particular that really jolted me but the entire second half of the game had me on pins and needles. If you liked this game, also check out Darkness Within 1 & 2.. I can just play the game I already own and listen to it for free and I still bought the soundtrack. Yes, the music is really good.. Great game, I fell in love with it before its release on steam. It's really easy to get into and nailing a boss feels great.. EDIT: The game is no longer "Vive-exclusive", but still isn't a good game.

This "Vive-exclusive" edition of Gunjack was not designed for the Vive and is not enjoyable as a result. Instead of using the controllers to aim, you aim with your head. The only thing you do with the controllers is press the triggers, which makes the "Vive-exclusive" nature of this game a joke, since it would have worked just as well with a mouse or a keyboard or an NES gamepad or anything that had two buttons on it.

Aiming with your head is not fun. The turret follows your head movement, so all you do is look at things and press the trigger. What makes this more offensive is that in the opening cinematic for each level, you have free look as your character reaches forward to grasp two control arms that you think are going to be represented by the controllers. The cinematic implies you can aim the turret with your arms while looking around with your head. Nope, the turret is glued to your head and your arms do nothing.

Aiming with your head is not fun. I'll be taking a refund on this one, and won't try it again unless they add a proper control setup. This is a shameless cash grab, and charging $10 for a Galaxy Gear game with no actual Vive features is ridiculous.. Even though I don't really like DotEmu's emulation job, I feel that having Neo Geo games on Steam is a must! Especially this game. Now they just got to port Samurai Shodown and Magician Lord on to Steam! Way more enjoyable than No Man's Sky, where everyone is duped in on buying.. Fun puzzle platformer where you find new tools. Each one of them adds an additional twist, and things start to get pretty complex before long. Be prepared for hair loss.. Simple, but satisfying. Not all CoG items are as solid as Choice of Kung Fu, and when my biggest complaint is that I wish there was more of it, that earns a recommendation from me.. Crashed a few times now, and, I mean, it's obviously a bad game. If you paid any attention to anyone who has played you could have guessed it.

It's still early access. though, so you could hope the developer manages a miracle to save it from just being a game that might as well have been a bad flash game 10 years ago.. horrible i want a refund good game but on my computer it lasted 2 days.

Now impossible to start the game even by re installing it.
impossible to have any support from valve or the game manufacturer.

Steam does not want to give my money back

. didnt like it much. Didnt unlock ingame..... Love the game only 30 minutes found it a little hard to be honest but still fun to play.

https://youtu.be/vzL_NKWmmxM. I first played warsim about 1-2 years ago, back before it was on steam. About a week ago I finally decided to buy it. It has shown great improvement and I really enjoy playing it. The random generation makes the game interesting, along with the exploring, and many other things such as the arena, throne room, upgrades, and many more. If your interested at all I highly recommend getting as im sure you will enjoy it, and the great developer deserves the support. I really only have one complaint, which is that the wars are not too interesting, and I believe the dev said he would improve it at some point. Other than that it is a wonderful game.
